I need to speak to you as a matter of urgency. I hope there is no reason the panic because you are just away in court, which is normal.

I have acknowledged Alex's kindness and generosity. I have made a promise to him that should I win any money in the probate, I will give back everything old to him in terms of your total fees, I also intend to give back an amount which is exceeding the lump sum of the estimated amount he spent on my immigration case while I was in the UK.

There were some events over the weekend. I won't be putting them in writing because nothing is going to change. Of course it depends on your discretion.

This case is supposed to proceed without Alex. Alex has agreed to that.

What I believe is, if my legal representative does not respect me, I am going to lose the case in the end no matter if Alex isn't it or not. If I seem like a villain to you, you might want to not represent me or do a lot this is entirely up to you.

Ireland is a different jurisdiction. All countries are similar but there are small differences. I have faith in God that I will get euthanasia. It's up to you if you think it's fair you represent me otherwise you know it's gone.

Respectfully

Mohini
